Wed Nov 10 10:36am EST Ray Lewis doesn't favor Thursday night games By Chris Chase Ray Lewis (notes) isn't cheerful almost playing among the NFL's first Thursday night game this week and it's never as he didn't DVR "Grey's An

Michael jordan shoes for sale atomy" alternatively as he thinks Thursday is the present Friday. Earlier this week, new nike nfl jersey, Lewis ripped the NFL as its eight-week Thursday night timetable (which begins Nov. 11 while the Ravens travel south to face the Atlanta Falcons) because it's unfair to the players: "You do it for its part of the affair But Im about guaranteeing namely 99 percent of us would vote against namely "It goes behind to the 18-game schedule You must ask yourself a real question while you timetable games favor this: Who does it aid Because it doesnt assistance the players. That turnaround is impartial also hasty You work from playing a physical game aboard Sunday and you have less than four days ahead you must physically get back up afresh It takes a week as guys to actually heal, nike nfl jerseys. I dont know when they put it among merely Ive never liked it." Lewis is right while he says namely the Thursday night timetable isn't fair to players.

(Although, whether it's never fair to him, it's too never just to the players aboard the Falcons.) But when did the NFL ever attention nearly player concerns? This isn't nearly the 90 players aboard the field, it's about the millions of fans who tune among to look them. The league exists to acquaint money and Thursday night games aid the found line, new nfl nike jerseys, mainly because they give the NFL leverage while negotiating with cheap nfl jerseys wholesale cord companies nearly how much to charge as the NFL Network, make a football jersey. The money that network brings into the federation is distant more important to employers than Ray Lewis' concerns about a fast turnaround period I'm sure 99 percent of players would ballot against Thursday night games. They would too ballot against cross-country peregrination the salary crown narcotic tests, non-guaranteed contracts and mandatory mini-camps whether they could also Just as players don't favor something doesn't mean it's wrong. That being said I entirely agree with Lewis. I don't favor Thursday night games either And I get the sense namely most NFL fans accede The Ravens-Falcons game is a pretty good an featuring two of the best teams from the AFC and NFC, respectively. Yet there's approximately no hum surrounding it. I'd wager a equitable aggregate of people reading this are hearing almost the game as the first time "Oh yes there's a Thursday night game this week!" I'll look if I'm around but I'm never planning my night approximately it. How much folk outside Atlanta or Baltimore are???
